

K-2 Week #8

R E A D R Q M L C C X Q K P C
 W I O Z H O D R O O B Z L L I
 I T G L R J A U S O L Y I A J
 V Z W N S D F C T U H O M Y P
 X K I O N D F O O C L C R N S
 E N M E R B R S R D I R S S E
 G L L P R K P I I R C Y E M L
 C A A L P H A B E T N C U S H
 C R E M I T P R S R E B M U N
 K J A H T L E S E R P B W B Y
 C S T Y U Q R M G L O B K H O
 Z A A N O E U A W O U V Z E L
 M M C L Z N A Y K K A R G Q O
 Y H E R A H S C I R C L E K P
 Q E N V K X M V B F H P O O V

SUMMER SCHOLARS

On Line Practice Sites:

raz-kids.com mathmagician.com eduplace.com ixl.com pbskids.org
learninggamesforkids.com mrnussbaum.com funbrain.com interactivesites.weebly.com

Well, the end of the summer is near and we are all at school getting ready for you! I hope that the Summer Scholars program has been fun for you this vacation break. Be sure to bring in your logs for each week during the first week of school. You can bring it to my room, the office, or give it to your teacher to give to me. I will send out invitations to the Summer Scholars Party after the first week of school. If you think that you should have been invited and you don't get one, please call me! If you have participated each week this summer in some way, then you should expect an invitation. In the meantime, keep reading, writing and learning! See you soon, Mrs. Edgecomb

ALPHABET BUS COLORS
 MATH NUMBERS PLAY RULER STORIES

ASK CALENDAR
 CRAYONS
 MILK
 PAPER
 READ
 SCHOOL TIME

BOOK
 CIRCLE
 LUNCH MORNING
 PENCIL
 RECESS SHARE
 WORK

This is a page for you to write a story. Start with your topic and then write your main idea. What do you want to say about your topic? Then think of some details; what color is it? How big is it? How do you feel about it? You can brainstorm some words in your word bank that you might want to use. Now you are ready to tell me a story or maybe write a report. A story would be call fiction, a report about something you learned would be non-fiction.